

Basically, one can differentiate between three models of the sharing economy, namely ...

... the collective consumption in the community.

Collaborative consumption means ...

... that participants can react quickly to supply and demand.

Usage is usually between members of a community, ...

... an intermediary fee, commission, or membership fee is charged.

Sharing economy is a ...

... by using an online rating system to provide social control and build trust and reputation.

Owning in the sharing economy means ...

... the time-shifted use of goods, services, or financial resources.

Typical for the sharing economy is ...

... the peer-to-peer model, the business-to-consumer model, and the consumer-to-business model.

Sharing economy means ...

... a temporary possession.

Often, a trust system is built ...

... which are organized via the internet.

In most cases of sharing economy ...

... dynamic and evolving process.